SOULS
WHO SURRENDER TO VULNERABILITY

I create emotionally grounded imagery shaped by atmosphere, symbolism, and a strong sense of mood.

My work often explores thresholds - between body and landscape, stillness and transformation, the intimate and the wild.

Based in Germany, working in watercolor, colored pencil, pencil and ink. My practice also includes hand-drawn typography.

Available for licensing and commission.
